Hearing called, heard, and submitted.

Having been informed upon the request of the juvenile officer that the juvenile be held in detention, the court makes the following determinations:

- The Juvenile is in secure detention,
- The Juvenile is not in secure detention,
- A Petition/Motion to Modify has been filed by the juvenile officer.
- The court has reviewed the following documents:
 - Application for Order of Detention
 - Valid Court Order _____ Dated _____
 - Valid Court Order Assessment (Requirement of the VCO Exception)
 - police report
 - signed statement of _____
 - other _____

Upon review of the foregoing documents, the court finds that probable cause exists to believe:

- The juvenile has committed the act(s) alleged in the pleadings and that said act(s) bring(s) the juvenile within the jurisdiction of the court pursuant to section 211.031.1(2) RSMo.
- The status offender violated their valid court order, _____, dated _____ pursuant to section 211.063.1 RSMo.

And;

- The child has a record of willful failure to appear at juvenile court proceedings; or
- The child has a record of violent conduct resulting in physical injury to self or others; or
- The child has a record of leaving a court-ordered placement, other than secure detention, without permission.

Further:

The factual basis for determining that there is reasonable cause to believe that the status offender has violated such order: _____

There are no appropriate less restrictive placements available for the status offender for the following reasons:

_____;

Pursuant to the provisions of Title IV-E of the Social Security Act, and based upon information and belief, the applicant states that:

- Services to prevent removal of the juvenile from the home were not possible due to emergency conditions, which necessitated the juvenile's immediate removal from the home. Continuation of the juvenile in the home is contrary to the welfare of the juvenile and the community.
- Reasonable efforts were made to keep the juvenile in the home. However, continuation of the juvenile in the home is contrary to the welfare of the juvenile and the community.
- Reasonable efforts to prevent removal from the juvenile's home were not made, but reasonable efforts are now being made to return the juvenile to the home and continuation of the juvenile in the home is contrary to the welfare of the juvenile and the community.
